LABOR UNION STREET RAILWAY.

Company Incorporated With Capital of Five Thousand Dollars.

The Labor Union Street Railway Company filed articles of incorporation yesterday in the Recorder's office. The capital stock is 5,000, and the officers for the first year are Thomas B. Edwards, president; Simeon Collins, vice president; William D. Benson, secretary, and John A. Roof, treasurer.

The articles of incorporation recite that the name of the new company shall be the Union Labor Street Railway Company. The principal office shall be located in St. Louis; the capital stock shall be $5,000, divided into 500 shares of the par value of $10 each, and the purpose of the corporation shall be to "construct, acquire, maintain and operate a street railroad or railroads in St. Louis."

The articles of incorporation were drawn up by Attorney James Craig of St. Josepn, Mo., who has been retained as counsel for the strikers in the project, Mr. Craig declared yesterday that abundant capital could be secured to finance the schame if franchises could be secured from the city. He declined to say who was expected to furnish the funds. A mass meeting of members of the street railway union will be held Saturday evening to discuss the matter and other questions having intimate relation with the strike solution. $5,000, and the officers for the first year are

The girl created a sensation when taken to the hospital for the first time two months ago. Her mother and she had then just arrived from Texas. While walking about the town, attempting to get employment, she was overcome by the heat. She entered Union Station and commenced going through a series of gestures, which attracted a large crowd.

Eight days ago she had quieted down, and Eight days ago she had quieted down, and she was released at the request of her mother. She seemed rational enough to justify her in beginning work, but yesterday afternoon her stage mania returned and she was found on Broadway going through her series of poses. She believes that she is a great actress, although on all other subjects she is rational.

Shot by Companion.

Louis Walters, 18 years old, of No. 4123 Nebraska avenue, is at the City Hospital in an unconscious condition from the effects of a bullet wound in the head. He has little chance for recovery, August Stie-meyer of No. 4123 Nebraska avenue, who is under arrest, claims the shooting was accidental. The affray happened at Klondike Park, Grand avenue and Osage street, where the two men went to bathe in the lake Thursday night.

Stiemeyer declares that after they emerged from the water he started to show a revolver to Walters, as the latter had expressed a desire to surphase a wears. volver to Walters, as the latter had expressed a desire to purchase a weapon. While they were examining the revolver the two men engaged in a friendly scuffle on the lake shore. While they were skylarking, Stiemeyer claims the revolver was accidentally discharged, the ball striking Walters in the head. The wounded boy was taken to the City Hospital and his condition is considered critical. He muttered a few words about the shooting taking place on a street car, but soon relapsed into unconsciousness. In consequence, he could not identify Stiemeyer, although the latter was brought to his bedside for the purpose. Oscar Hahn of No. 3423 Klock street corpoborates Stiemeyer's statement.

FRED GODDEJOHANN, VICTIM.

Lee Avenue Car, Which Had Been Blocked, Struck Wagon as It Turned-Driver Became Furious and Shot Recklessly.

Andrew McBride of No. 1401 North Sixteenth street shot and probably fatally wounded Frederick Goddejahann of No. 1913 North Fifteenth street, while trying to shoot William McCauley, the conductor of a Union line car, which had bumped his wagon as it crossed the tracks near the corner of O'Fallon and Sixteenth streets. McBride is 63 years old and the proprietor of a coal yard on North Sixteenth street. His victim is 19 years old and a

McBride, it is said, was under the influence of liquor. He was returning to his coal yard and drove so close to the tracks that the cars were unable to pass. A car approached from behind, and the motorman rang the gong for some time before Mc-Bride deigned to notice it. When he ar rived opposite the mouth of an alley near his yard, he turned in. The motorman turned on the current a trifle too soon and the car struck one wheel of McBride's wagon, but did no damage. McBride became furious, and, leaving the wagon still obstructing the track, jumped down and ran into his house, coming out with a revolver, which he discharged three times at the conductor. His hand was shaky and his aim bad, so the bullets flew

Fred Goddejohann, who had been walking towards O'Fallon street, turned to see what was causing the disturbance, and received one of the bullets in his chest. The ball struck near the heart, and he fell, exclaiming, "I am shot!"

A policeman, hearing the shots, ran around the corner and almost fell over the body of Goddejohann. He saw McBride standing in his door with the revolver in his hand, and placed him under arrest. An ambulance and patrol wagon were summoned, and Goddejohann was hurried to the City Hospital, while McBride was taken to the Fourth District Station.

Goddejohann was very weak when he arrived at the City Hospital, and could only say that he had heard the first shots fired and had turned to see what was the mat-ter. He saw McBride standing on his doorstep, and just as he turned McBride fired again, this shot striking him.

McBride was taken later to the City Hos-pital for Goddejohann to identify, and was in a state of intoxication when he arrived there. He shouted out jovial responses to questions as to his name and address by the reception-room staff, and stumbled the reception-room staff, and stumbled cheerfully up the stairs after the policemen who were escorting him. He admitted he had been shooting, and seemed to consider it a great joke.

But what he saw in the operating-room changed his mood. Goddejohann was stretched upon an operating table, covered only by a white sheet and with a trickle of blood flowing down from his chest. McBride sobered up as suddenly as if he had been ducked in a pond, and, jerking off his hat, stood perfectly quiet. When Goddejohann said, "Yes, that's the man who shot me," he muttered something inarticulate me," he muttered something inarticulate and quietly followed the officers downtairs and to the patrol wagon.

The car over which the difficulty arose was No. 19 of the Union line, in charge of Motorman John Listia and Conductor William McCauley. The weapon with which McBride did the shooting is an old-style rusty British buildog revolver, which looks as if it would be far more dangerous to the shooter than to the person shot at.

INVESTMENT HOLDINGS ARE BEING INCREASED.

America's Strength Evidenced to the World by British War Loan Subscription.

New York, Aug. 10.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review will say: "Progress has been made toward a more stable position of business with a few more heavy contracts to hold the ground already sained, but for a proper interpretation of the week's results one must look beyond Wall street operations, where more than any other quarter the vacation season is leaving its impress of inactivity.

"Speculation is cautious, but investment holdings are being increased rather than diminished and operators cannot see that their hesitation on the ground of politics is echoed any more in general business circles than two months ago. Small change appears in railroads stocks, ten Industriais are $1 and Traction issues a shade lower, Working forces are smaller and will soon be further reduced, possibly, for three weeks, by the closing down of cotton mills in New England, which has been delayed longer than expected, but our strength is evidenced to the world by the oversub-scription here of the new British loan of f10,000,000 on about a 3% per cent basis, of which over half is allotted to American applicants. London sales of 40,000 shares of stocks "London sales of 40,000 shares of stocks and some bonds and American purchases of the new foreign loan explain why gold goes out on the foreign commerce returns, which show for New York alone for the week an excess of exports over imports of more than $5,000,000. Exports for the week of $12,763,719 were more than double those of the same period of 1899, and for the year the gain is over $55,000,000, while imports gain only $20,000,000. The money market is untroubled by financing of the foreign loan, though the volume of new commercial loans hough the volume of new commercial loans is well sustained.

Corn gains nearly 2 cents with the ald of dry weather reports, and is 8 cents above the price at this time last year. Both receipts and exports for the week fell more than a million bushels below the same week in 1890.

"Improvement is slow in boots and shoes, with only a small percentage of Eastern shops at work. The textile markets have been free from such features as marked recent revisions of prices, but business is of fair volume. Loss of the Chinese market has put coarse brown cottons in a bad position, other grades being less seriously affected. In woolen goods reorders are not up to expectations, and some serges sell lower.

"Manufacturers show more interest in the wool market, taking fair quantities and seeking fewer concessions. The tone is firmer, though prices are unchanged.

House of Delegates.

A resolution memoralizing and requesting the Police Department to enforce the garbage ordinances, was offered in the House of Delegates last night by Mr. Sturdevant. The matter was referred to the Committee on Sanitary Affairs, although Mr. Sturde-vant had fruitiessly moved for its adoption.

The resolution recites, verbatim, the four ordinances relative to the refuse nuisance, and petitions the Police Department to proceed in compelling obedience to law in order to demonstrate who may be at fault for conditions which have excited general protest.

Mr. Sturdevant defined the tenor of the resolution and asserted his motive to be the determination of culpability. He said property owners blame the Sanitary and Police departments, as well as the Excelsior Haulton. departments, as well as the Excelsior Hauling Company. The only way, he stated, to learn positively who is guilty of dereliction is to enforce the law.

The bill granting a release of wharf property at the foot of Chouteau avenue, for a term of fifteen years, to the St. Louis Rowing Club was passed by the Council and signed by Speaker Murrell of the House. The season is unusually late, but the number of arrivals of buyers in the market so far shows a gratifying increase over last season and gives good promise for future trade. There have been more department store buyers in the market this season than were ever seen at this time before and there are also many large shoe buyers in town. Although the present period comes after one of exceptional activity, there is every indication of a prosperous fall trade. A majority of the merchants are of the opinion that the volume of business will be lar-ger than last year, and owing to the higher prices all along the line will exceed in money value the excellent fall trade of 1899 The Chinese War bugaboo is a bearist factor in the cotton goods market, but merchants as a rule are not alarmed at the outlook, and there is not another doubtful feature in the whole situation.

Prominent Porto Ricans Dead.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Lebanon, Ill., Aug. 10.—Miguel Planellas, Jr., a native of Porto Rico, who is here pursuing a law course at McKendree College, has just received word of the death of his father, Miguel Planellas, at his home in Cayey, Porto Rico. The deceased was one of the seven directors of the recent United States census of that Island.

The son here was the original one to raise the question relating to the political status in the United States of Porto Ricans, upon which the Attorney General of Illinois delivered an opinion this week. Mr. Planellas claimed the right of Porto Ricans to vote in the States without naturalization, holding that they had been adopted into the nationality. The Attorney General decides that under the treaty they would not be entitled to such right and that they are still aliens within the meaning of our naturalization laws.

GOVERNMENT APPEALS.

Right of Indians to Lay Out Towns and Sell Lots to Be Decided.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL Ardmore, I. T., Aug. 10 .- The case against Indian Judge I. O. Lewis, a Chickasaw, recently decided by Judge Hosea Townsend of the United States Court favorably for Lewis, is to be taken to the Court of Appeals of the Territory.

This suit involves the right of an Indian citizen to lay out a town on his own prospective allotment, or on premises which he claims under the tribal laws for his exclusive occupancy, and to sell lots independently of the Townsite Commissioners.

The United States denies to Lewis that right and will appeal the case.

It is claimed that Lewis and others have offended section 2118 of the Revised Statutes of the United States and are liable to criminal prosecution for surveying and marking Indian lands without authority. This is the case recently reported wherein the new town of Madill on the proposed Frisco extension was to be built to the detriment of the old town, Oakland, about two miles distant. the United States Court favorably for Lew-Irreligious Full-Blood Cherokees Dance at Sallisaw, I. T.

REFUBLIC SPECIAL.

Sallisaw, I. T., Aug. 10.—Carnival week opened here last night. A band of full-blood Cherokees has been engaged, and danced all night last night around the little fire near the picnic grounds.

The more conservative full-bloods refuse to dance in the presence of so many white people. Their dances are regarded as a religious affair, and they look upon the present dance as being sacrliegious and refuse to take part therein. The dancers are employed by the town, and are composed of irreligious full-bloods.

A float last night contained Indians representing Powhattan, Pocahontas and John Smith, and the historical scene of the rescue of John Smith was played by the Indians. REFUBLIC SPECIAL.

Hebron, Neb., Aug. 10.—Mrs. Almira Williamson, who, with her husband, a retired farmer, lived in the northern part of this city, committed suicide by hanging herself to the limb of a box-elder tree near her home at about 5 c'clock yesterday morning. She had been an invalid for a number of years, and despondency was undoubtedly the cause of the deed. She had used a bench to reach the bough and when found her feet lacked only a few inches of touching the ground. She was about 55 years of age. About two weeks ago she and her husband joined a band of about twenty who were organizing a branch of the church of Doctor Dowle of Chicago.
